THE MEMO BEFORE THE BUILD.

Check your idea before you sink months into build.

Get a structured memo — tensions left visible, a BUILD / PIVOT / KILL read, and a 48-hour test plan — in minutes after you file. Private, blunt, revisable.

Free to start after sign-in: two memo runs per day (UTC midnight reset). Same output whether you joined via waitlist or open signup — limits keep quality legible.

Try it free → | View sample memo ↓ | Request early access

Free to start after sign-in · daily run limit · private history when you're signed in

↓

memo 0142-IM · filed 2026-05-08 · private

Idea

Vertical CRM for solo immigration lawyers — $99/mo wedge.

Verdict band

BUILD | PIVOT | KILL

Compression 72 / 100

Tensions surfaced

HIGH REV Buyer is the practitioner — budgets are thin and cycles are slow.

MED CMP Substitutes bundle generic CRM cheaper than migration pain.

01

Seven angles

Market, competition, revenue, build cost, buyer psychology, failure modes, and next tests — each reads the same brief independently.

Verdict

BUILD · PIVOT · KILL

One band with plain language — a frame for the next two days, not a vanity score.

BUILD PIVOT KILL

Tensions

Disagreement stays visible

48-hour plan

Cheap tests first

Where angles read the same sentence differently, both sides stay on the page.

HIGH
Substitution risk from bundled incumbents.

MED
Build surface heavier than the wedge.

A short checklist tied to this pass — disprove before you fund the build.

- Talk to 8 buyers in the wedge
- Price a manual concierge pass
- Kill scope that isn't proven

HOW IT WORKS

Same pipeline. Four rooms.

Product screenshots below are stylized stand-ins — swap in real captures when ready. The layout already breaks the "single animation pattern" trap.

s ·

Verdict hold
BUILD / PIVOT / KILL · full-screen tension

Score breakdown
Animated bars · partner read · diptych

48h plan
Day rows · succes

SAMPLE OUTPUT

This is the page you get — not a transcript.

Verdict strip, seven angle rows, tensions, a compression breakdown, and a 48-hour test list. Illustrative copy only.

memo 0142-IM · 2026-05-08 09:14 UTC · private · not for distribution

Idea

A vertical CRM for solo immigration lawyers, priced at $99/mo.

Solo lawyers run cases in spreadsheets. The wedge is workflow primitives the generic CRMs do not carry. The buyer is the user, not procurement.

Verdict

. BUILD

If it survives
Solo segment lock-in via niche

If it collapses
Generic CRM plus a niche template wins

confidence: moderate-high workflow primitives the generic tools structurally cannot ship. $99 captures budget below procurement. Case-driven UX wins on retention.

on price. You spend nine months building integrations the buyer did not need to switch.

> Contradiction · resolved this pass
>
> Earlier reads framed this as enterprise-grade workflow tooling, but the wedge described is solo-practitioner UX. Resolved: solo segment is the wedge. Enterprise is a later distribution motion, not the build.

Angle notes · seven rows

3 build · 3 pivot · 1 kill

MKT	market reality	BUILD	Solo immigration practices in the US: roughly 14,000. ICP density is workable. Segment-specific workflow gaps are real.
CMP	competitive pressure	PIVOT	Clio plus niche templates covers about 70% of the surface for $39. Switching cost vs. perceived gain is thin.
REV	revenue economics	BUILD	$99 captures discretionary budget below procurement. Buyer is the user. Short, predictable cycle.
BLD	build cost	PIVOT	Integration surface (state-bar APIs, USCIS forms) is bigger than the wedge. 6 to 9 months to substantive demo.
ICP	buyer psychology	BUILD	Status incentive is moderate. Solo lawyers buy when peers ship results. Content motion compounds.
RSK	failure modes	KILL	If Clio acquires a vertical-template vendor in Q3, the wedge compresses to a 6-month window.
TST	what to test	BUILD	48h: 12 paid pilots from one referral channel, or kill the wedge as framed. No moral victories.

Compression score · breakdown

Composite · 72/100

Wedge specificity 78/100

case-driven workflow primitives are structurally different

Buyer reachability 64/100

content and referral motion compounds inside the solo segment

Substitution risk 42/100

Clio plus templates remains a credible 70% solution at a lower price

Capital efficiency 56/100

integration surface is heavy, but each integration thickens the moat

48-hour test plan

Starts when you decide

0-12h	Pull 200 solo immigration lawyer LinkedIn profiles. Send 30 outbound DMs with the wedge framed in one line.
12-36h	Run 8 calls. Score each conversation against three primitives the generic CRMs do not carry: case-state, deadline-aware tasks, client-facing portal.
36-48h	Close 12 paid pilots at $99/mo, no discounts. If fewer than 12, kill the wedge as framed and rewrite from the buyer's actual workflow.

48 hours is enough to disprove the framing. The point is to test before you build.

FIT

Built for founders who file ideas before they fund them.

If you already talk to customers and want a second read that disagrees on purpose — not another chat wrapper — this is for you.

Small teams shipping weekly, comparing runs on the same template.

People who want tensions left visible instead of averaged away.

Founders who'll run cheap tests before touching the repo.

Private beta — we're not polishing quote cards yet. Use the sample memo on this page as the proof.

Try it once.

Describe the wedge bluntly — get the full memo shape with angles, tensions, verdict band, and a two-day checklist. Then decide what's worth a second filing.

Run a memo →

Open sample memo ↑

Free to start · Private · No card to explore

FAQ

Plain answers.

Seven common questions — no jargon wall.

01 What is this in one sentence? ×

You write a startup brief (plain words). VERDIKT responds with one structured memo: seven fixed angles of commentary, unresolved tensions kept visible, a BUILD/PIVOT/KILL verdict band, rough compression scoring, and a 48-hour test checklist.

02 Is it 'AI validates my genius'? +

03 Why limit runs per day? +

04 Do I need an account? +

05 What doesn't it do? +

06 Is my text private? +

07 What happens after BUILD or PIVOT? +

Memo before build

Memo before build.

Straightforward validation for startup ideas — private notes, structured output.

RUN A MEMO →

EARLY ACCESS

© 2026 VERDIKT